THE NEW DOG LAW

The following is a summarized statement of the provisions of the new dog law passed by the recent session of the West Virginia Legislature, it being a revision and enlargement of the old law, and is made to include goats and kids with sheep.

Any person may kill any dog he sees chasing, worrying wounding or killing any sheep, lambs, goats or kids, outside the enclosure of the owner of the dog, unless it be done by the direction of the owner of the sheep etc (Same as old law)

The owner of a dog worrying or killing sheep, etc is liable to the party injured for the damage sustained, recoverable before any court or justice having jurisdiction and the owner of the dog is liable whether or not he knew the dog was accustomed to worry, wound or kill sheep. If the injured party recovers damages from the county court he cannot also recover from the owner of the dog, but the county court can then recover from the owner of the dog (Thus far the law has not been changed.)

If any person harbors or secretes a dog that he has reason to believe has worried chased or killed sheep. etc. he is liable to a fine of from $10,00 to $50,00. and at the discretion of the court to imprisonment not exceeding 30 days, and each day constitutes a separate offence. (News)

When the owner of a dog is given written notice, under oath, from reliable source, that his dog had worried, wounded, chased or killed sheep etc, he is required to kill it within 48 hours (Old law.) If the owner refuses to kill the dog, a justice, upon information, shall summon the owner of the dog, and upon satisfactory proof, shall issue a warrant upon the application of the party damaged, commanding the sheriff, constable or special constable to forthwith kill the dog, at the cost of the owner of the dog and includes in the cost 50 cents for killing it, and the owner shall also be liable for the value of the sheep etc (New.)

The assessors shall each year list all dogs over 4 weeks old, giving a description and the ownership of each, and in doing this he may examine any person under oath. The fact that a dog is kept or allowed to remain about any house shall be sufficient evidence for the assessor to list it as the property of the owner of the house The constable shall receive 10 cents each for the listing. (New)

Any person may have his dog listed as personal property, and after paying the taxes thereon, it shall be deemed personal property and shall have the same protection as other property, and the owner may recover damages not exceeding the assessed value of the dog (New)

Any person may at any time kill any vicious or dangerous dog, or any dog running at large, after the owner has notice and still permits it to run at large and out of his control. (New)

The dog tax shall be $1.00 on males over 4 week old and on female between 4 weeks old, 8 months old and on unspayed female over 8 months old it shall be $3.00.

The county court shall furnish the sheriff with a list of all persons charged with dog tax which shall collect in the same manner as the taxes, and shall receive the same commission. This tax shall constitute a fund to renumerate citizens of the county for lost to sheep etc, by dogs within the county and if the surplus in any year exceeds one half the amount expended the year before, the excess shall be applied to the general road fund by the county court.

A list of all persons returned delinquent for failure to pay the dog tax shall delivered to a constable of the district, who shall notify the delinquent owner, and if he fails or refuses to pay the tax the constable shall kill and bury the dog. Any person concealing a dog from the constable shall be fined $5,00.

The constable shall be allowed a reasonable compensation by the Court for his services, and shall make return to the County Court and shall be liable for the dog tax on all dogs not satisfactory accounted for.

Lobelia.

The big snow storm is over, we hope, but the wind blows cold.

W. B. Hill has returned from Richwood.

Jesse Clark lost a good horse last week with kidney trouble. D. M. Kennison also has a very sick horse with lung fever. We hate to see a good horse die, they are so scarce and high.

Frank Young has a ewe that gave birth to a lamb on the 2nd of April, and on April 16 had another lamb. She is nursing and caring for both. Any one knowing a similar case would be gladly heard from.

It is understood that J. O. Hill and his bride will arrive Wednesday evening.

George Williams is with the Warn Lumber Co.

Robert Agne is spending a few days in town.

Miss Maggie Gay of Marlinton, was visiting her cousin, John Young, last week.

The Lobelia foot ball team will be organized as soon as the ball arrives. We wish them success.

J. W. Gorden & Co. will commence their lumber business as soon as the weather is favorable. They have over three million feet to manufacture on Hills Creek.

Still cool down here, with plenty of snow in sight, but we think we will cheer up after the 28th.

W. B. Hill has just returned from Richwood where he had gone to help the Cherry River Boom & Lumber Co. lay out railroads. They expect to build 17 miles on North Fork of Cherry, and want to get to Cherry Grades by July 1st. Mr Hill will return to Richwood when the snow gets off. He reports the catching of a monster trout at the Richwood Dam by a man named Williams. It was 17½ inches long by Doyles measurement. Mr. Hill tells a fish story that beats that. At Red Bank on Stamping Creek 28 years ago he caught a trout that weighed 48 ounces by diving for it. It was sold to N. J. Brown for 10 cents a pound and netted 30 cents. This is no fish lie; proof can be secured.

It is reported that a man who has been going to Greenbrier ostensibly for seed corn will bring home a wife, Mrs McClung. An excuse is a good thing sometimes. The boys ought to be ashamed of themselves; this makes three to their none.

Miss Fannie Hodges is visiting here.

Joe Walton has gone to Buckeye.

Call & Fox, traveling men, were in town over Sunday selling liver medicine.

Rev. C. M. Anderson has been on the sick list but is better.

Mrs. Bettie Stark will move to near Lobelia this week,

Wheeler Boblett has been to Locust Creek to get a job.

Ray Cutlip, of Beard, was in town today.

Clark & Co. have been selling machinery here.

Distressing Occurrence

Wednesday night Police Officer Sutton received a telegram from Clifton Forge asking the police here to stop a young couple who were on their way to Washington to be married, the message coming from the young ladies' mother. They were taken from east bound train No. 2, and put on No. 3, and returned to Clifton Forge. After reaching that place and while crossing the walk bridge over Jackson river the young lady removed her hat and sprang into the river and was drowned. The young man, it is supposed leaped in to save her and was also drowned. The lady was Miss Mabel Pendleton, a most attractive young woman only 18 years old, and he intended husband, a young man named Stuart Gay, a son of Capt. C. S. Gay, a passenger conductor on the C. & O.' and was only 16 years of age. Up to noon yesterday the bodies had not been recovered. The walk over the river is 35 feet high and the water at that point 4 or 5 feet deep. —Staunton Spectator.

Mayor McNeel and little daughter Nancy spent Sunday with his parents at Millpoint.

The saloonkeeper thinks the law to protect his cash drawer from the thief is a good law, but he hates the law requiring his saloon to close on Sunday.—Governor Folk.

A Bloomville Monument

Jim set the ads. and made up forms for years here on the Sun,
And when he died he didn't leave
a cent—not any one;
And yet to us he'd always been
as square as any chap
As ever drove a Dutchman* in or hunted for a capt.
So when he died we thought it tough that he had failed to save Enough to buy a monument at least to mark his grave.
We sind o' talked it over—Hank and me and Darkey Wes
Who comes around on Saturdays
to turn the Campbell press,
And on the morning after Jim
was laid away to rest,
[illegible] the boss, remarked;
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible] was gone
Well, no one said a word for full a minute; it was Hank
Who broke the silence where he leaned against the awning bank.
"It's gone," he says; "we kind o'
thought the slab belonged to Jim
So planted it above his grave—
a monument for him†"
And old Bob said, forgetting once
to take a chew and swear:
"I'll bet if Jim could have his say, he'd say to leave it there."

"Uncle Joe" Cannon.

Hon. Joseph G. Cannon, speaker of the House of Representatives, was a passenger on No. 3 Monday, enroute to Danville, Ill, his home town, to vote in the municipal election.

In making the trip though the New River gorge he was much interested in the scenery and asked some of his fellow travelers to point out the interesting sights along the route. Especially was he intersted in Hawk's Nest, this county, and becoming reminiscent told of the trip he made over the mountains in 1859 with his family when they were enroute to Illinois from the Carolinas. A night was spent at Hawk's Nest then, and though many years have passed, the distinguished congressman remembered the trip and its every detail.—Free Press

The John H. Sparks Show which was snowed out here on the 9th inst, has been in winter quarters at Velington ever since. Having cancelled all dates. They will start on the road again. Saturday. From a press report we learn that the recent cold weather has been trying even to the polar bear.

The names of James W. Warwick, Jr., 11th Va. Cav., T. F. Knapp, 19th Va., Cav, and J. Rippetoe, 22nd, Va. Inf., have been handed us as veterans who will go with Moffett Poage Camp to the reunion at Richmond. The cost of a round trip ticket from Marlinton will be $6.25 Captain S. B. Hannah has recently had a communication for Captain Brown, of the committee on entertainment, in which he says that if the Marlinton Band will be subject to their orders, entertainment will be provided for them. Also all veterans who are unable to pay their own way will be taken care of free.

The Cherry River Boom & Lumber Company will build a road into their timber lands on Cranberry this season. The route lies up the North Fork of Cherry, and on this stream they have already a number of miles of steel laid. By means of switch backs they will cross the divide onto Cranberry, four to six miles below the mouth of Dogway. Branches will be built up Dogway, up both forks of Cranberry and some of the larger tributaries. Camps will probably be established on Cranberry this season.

Notice to Teachers

Report comes from one of the Sec. B. E that some of the teachers in his district have thus far failed to report enumerations of youth in their sub districts according to law.

Teachers thus failing to report will please give the matter their attention at once, and thus save expense of having it done by some one else at their expense.

See that every school child of it is reported, that is between six and twenty one years,—married or single.

GLUED THEM DOWN

HOW A SKIPPER SAVED HIS SHIP FROM SAVAGES.

South Sea Island Natives Were Decidedly Up Against It When They Mixed Things with Capt. McCabe.

"It was when I was trading around the South sea islands that I had a narrow escape from a band of savages that were going to take my ship," said Capt. McCabe, the veteran sailor who has now settled ashore to pass his days in leisure, to a Seattle Post-Intelligencer man. "It came near having a serious ending for me, but I came out ahead after all.

"I was sailing in a pretty little schooner, the Mattie W., and we had a general cargo for trading. Sotting on deck were about 20 cases of a glue that was never known to let go, but we couldn't sell a bit of it.

"Well, we got down to Maccolo, one of the group of the New Hebrides, and there we anchored in Manley bay. The snowy sand of the beach was shaded by waving palms and the sheltered waters of the bay were warm and as clear as crystal. We lay there for a week resting up and cleaning up the ship. We had been trading for almost a year then and there was nothing left but the glue and that was piled alongside the companion way.

"Well, one afternoon I let all the crew go ashore, and they were inland or away swimming in the clear water. I lay down to have a snooze. Suddenly I was awakened by a sharp jolt and all around me were South sea savages. They were armed with spears, bows and arrows and stone tomahawks. Their actions were hostile and I saw right away that I was up against it. I was alone on the vessel with all these armed heathens.

"Just then I happened to touch one of those glue boxes and in a flash an idea came to me. There was a large bunch standing near the main life rail and I grabbed five bottles and threw them at that crowd of savages one after the other. The bottles were thin glass and every one broke. Then, before the savages could recover their wits, I started throwing more. The glass would break and the glue ran all over them. When they tried to walk the glass would cut their feet and in a few minutes I had that whole crowd of savages glued to the deck unable to move. The glue hardened almost instantly on touching the air and this was what saved me.

"When I saw that they were all caught I signaled for the crew to return and then we weighed anchor and put off for Charlotte, in the Gilbert Islands, where there were laborers wanted. I wasn't engaging in the slave trade, mind you, because these natives had come on board of their own free will and hadn't left.

"At Charlotte a planter offered to pry those savages loose from the deck and give $1,000 to boot, and I let him do it. That planter also took all the rest of the glue that we had.

"That was one of the most fortunate voyages that ever I made."

Her Probable Reason.

"Day before yesterday, right out in front of the hotel, here," said the landlord of the tavern at Polkville, Ark., "a nice-looking grass-widow met a feller that had been going with her some, and fired three shots at him, one of which tore off considerable of his south ear as he was rapidly going east. I was settin' on the porch at the time, and saw it all, and"—

"Great Scott!" ejaculated the washing-machine agent, pricking up his ears eagerly, "unless it is a matter that you don't care to discuss, I wish you would tell me what, in your opinion, was the lady's reason for such an act?"

"Well, I reckon," was the ingenuous reply, "that she was mad at him. Of course, she mightn't have been—you can't tell much about women, you know—but that's the way it looked to me."—Tom P. Morgan in Smart Set.

CHARACTER IN FACE

READING OF THE FEATURES NOW AN EXACT SCIENCE.

Temperament and Disposition of Individuals Plainly Shown, According to Woman Who Has Studied Subject.

The face as a map of character and disposition is the subject of an elaborate study by an English woman. She holds that the reading of the features can be reduced to an exact science.

There is an elaborate classification of eyes. Among the broad deductions is the dictum that dark eyes invariably indicate a strong, passionate nature, while light blue ones show a calculating, cool and resolute character.

Light brown eyes are signs of intelligence, fancy, fickleness in love and a rapidly fluctuating temperament. A sure indication of oratorical gift is projecting eyes and they also betoken literary skill in the use of language.

A strongly developed nose is a mark of superior endowments. The owner of a big nose has more energy than the owner of a small one.

The nostrils also have their significance. Large nostrils indicate courage; little ones, cowardice. Long narrow ones show activity and bodily vigor. Broad nostrils opening toward the side show a predilection for horses.

Mouth and lips are full of suggestiveness. The man with a hanging underlip is apt to lack perseverance and concentration of purpose. The modest individual's lower lip is habitually pressed close against the upper lip at the center.

The chin and lower jawbone are important indices of character. True love is evident in a face in which the jawbone broadens clear back to the level of the wisdom teeth. This is true, both of men and women.

The youth who seeks an amiable spirit in his sweetheart must choose a girl with neatly curving lower lips and full and well rounded chin; her eyes must be soft and brown. If he desires great constancy, he must look carefully to the spread of her lower jaw. Economy is promised by a widening of the nose just above the wings of the nostrils.

On the other hand, the young woman who desires an industrious husband should choose a man with long lower lip. If she desires [illegible]

If you have ever worn a "KANTBEBEAT" suit you never forget the cut.

You may be thinking right now of buying a new suit.

Come to this store, look at our new "KANTBEBEAT" styles and be pleased. You will see why they are "superior to so-called tailor made."

Some clothing dealers are satisfied to sell a man once. We want to sell you clothing year in and year out. To do this you must be kept satisfied.

We also represent eight houses for tailor made suits and among them one from this state Mr Theo. Stumps of Davis W. Va. who is a favorite among Lumberman and knows how to fit and build a suit to hold its shape. Shoes, Trunks and Suit cases we have them a large stock in good grades and at prices that has and will sell them also a nice line of low quarter shoes and about everything you can call for in Gents Furnishings and will continue to have. We do not say we sell the cheapest in the town or the Sate We will leave that for you to judge but do say we mean a fair deal and not over charge any one we have done business about one year without advertising as the goods advertise for themselves mostly and we are not quite on the rocks either. We have held our trade and will continue to do so by deserving it. We took over two hundred orders last year for tailor made suits. This year we must take three hundred our motto is I will You can see we have had the experience and can fit you as we know how. Below you will find a cliping from a paper we think worth repeating

Who carried you last winter when you were not of a job or had had no money? Was it Montgmery Ward & Co, or was it your home merchant. When you want to raise money for your church or some needy person in town do you write to Sears & Roebuck? or do you go to your home merchants? How much does Sugel Cooper & Co, give towards keeping up side walks or paying the ministers salary.

Watch us close see if we practice what we preach when we want a clerk do we send off and get one or do we employ the home boy see where our suspenders and Pools flannel are made we think you will find W. Va. about all our notions and tailor made suits are W. Va., bought. Patronize home merchants and industres when possible.
